In general, there are 36 underground cities in the region of Cappadocia as Christians were building them in an effort to escape from prosecutions. This particular underground city is the largest and most famous as thousands of people are visiting the sight every year.

It has a total of 8 floors however, only four of them are accessible to public. During your time there you will get the chance to observe the city's winery, kitchens and other rooms that are carved into the ground. The church's interior is also interesting as it hosting some paintings from the 10th century. Your quiet and relaxing walking session will stop once you reach a local river-side restaurant. A lunch break will take place there and you will have the chance to recharge your batteries with energy to continue your excursion. The lunch includes soup, salad, and a choice between, trout, chicken, vegetarian meal, or meatballs.

It is estimated that the monastery was constructed between the 8th and 10th century and the halls included a missionary school, a church and a living area. Exactly opposite, on a cliff, there is another female monastery. The monastery is a great example of architectural design that is carved into rocks. High ceilings, balconies and large rooms will surely impress you.

What follows is a short break at the Pigeon Valley. It is located at the skirts of Göreme city and forms an amazing photo point.
